MANAGE PAIN
УПРАВЛЕНИЕ БОЛЕЗНЮ

IASP has dedicated the 2017 to the study and the clinical aspects of Acute Pain. Their conclusions were very negative, if not dramatic. Acute pain, and especially postoperative pain is very poorly treated. So, all over the world there is still the necessity to increase the awareness on acute pain patients.

The 9th Manage Pain Congress has appeared as a fantastic occasion to include a satellite symposium on the Acute Pain Management.

The Fondazione Internazionale Menarini, with the scientific support of the Fondazione Paolo Procacci, is supporting a highly renowned international faculty to make an update on this crucial topic in medicine.

The scientific program of the 2 days symposium will be exploring all the new data on Acute Pain appeared in the literature in the last few years, but will also propose new strategies for the management and the pharmacological treatment. This will certainly be useful for all the attendees, but especially for their patients.

Prof. Giustino Varrassi, President of the Symposium

Prof. Alexei Danilov, President of the Manage Pain Congress

1. About Fondazione Internazionale Menarini (www.fondazione-menarini.it).
Fondazione Internazionale Menarini was established in 1976 to promote the knowledge on biology, pharmacology and medicine, focusing on the practical aspects deriving from a translational process from basic science. It represents a meeting point for all health care professionals and friends with common ideals towards the progress of sciences for the benefit of mankind.
2. About Fondazione Paolo Procacci (FPP - www.fondazioneprocacci.org).
The FPP promotes basic research and clinical trials on pain and all associated symptoms. It promotes the scientific research of social interest. It finances research bursaries for young researchers. It contributes to the education on pain management of the health care professionals. It contributes to updating the core curricula for the optimal cultural growth of the health care professionals involved in pain management. It is sustaining the necessity of a medical specialty in Pain Medicine. It is diffusing scientific knowledges to the public at large. It represents an authoritative scientific entity, as advisor for the political authorities in charge to manage the problems connected to pain and pain patients.
3. About Manage Pain. «Manage pain» aims to disseminate the knowledge continuously provided by various pain institutions and associations and to stimulate network building among pain scientists and pain clinicians in Europe. It is an International Congress whose diffusion is mainly in Russia and the Eastern European Countries. It is at its ninth edition and its mean attendance is over 1.500 participants, of different medical specialties.
The interdisciplinary approach to pain is a well established necessity, and Manage Pain, organized by the Interdisciplinary Medicine Association tries to satisfy such necessities.
